A collection of timeless wisdom as a companion through the year. Short impuls to draw, collect and take with You.

MAGIC NOTES

These notes are small impulses for your everyday life.

You can draw them like a fortune cookie, collect them as daily companions, or use them as a quiet ritual. It is not about doing “everything right”. It is about creating one moment each day that brings you back into clarity, calm, and direction.

PREPARATION

You can print the notes on normal paper, or turn them into a real set by using coloured paper tones. Colour helps you grab more quickly and makes the whole thing feel “alive”. This automatically creates a nice mix and you notice your mood more quickly. The category is recognisable through the respective colour, without being printed on it. This is extremely elegant and immediately has the feel of real magic notes.

Fold the magic notes twice and place them in a suitable container (Bowl, Box, Jar)

Cutting out 365 notes sounds like some work, and that is exactly where the gift lies. You do not have to do everything in one day. Cut them out in small stages. This preparation is already a quiet exercise in your everyday practice. You go slowly. You put things in order.

You do something with your hands. That is already a routine.

Do not take the notes as an obligation. Take them as an invitation. Some days call for wisdom, some call for calm, some call for courage.

You do not have to force anything. One sentence is enough. One moment is enough. These notes are small, and that is precisely why they are strong. They do not take you away from your everyday life. They bring you back to yourself.

DAILY NOTE

Draw 1 note in the morning.

Place it somewhere clearly visible.

(Mirror, desk, phone case, wallet, ...)

In the evening: read it once more and let it “close”.

THEME NOTE

You do not have to think.

Choose a theme that fits today.

Just reach for what speaks to you.

WEEKLY NOTE

Draw one note for the week.

This gives the sentence time to unfold and take effect.

Often the meaning changes when you repeat it.

THE YEAR NOTES

Turn drawing into a small yearly practice.

Choose your favourite notes by category:

Favourites, themes, mood, situations,
wisdom, months, or your own words.

Collect. Paste in. Hang up.

This is how your own small collection emerges of your most important reminders and moments.

ELEMENTS & AETHER

For basic energy that colours everything. These notes show each element's starting impulse, style of action and path of transformation, plus power sentence and warning signal.

FIRE	EARTH	AIR	WATER
Start: Fire begins through courage. ☆	Start: Earth begins through stability. ☆	Start: Air begins through question and gaze. ☆	Start: Water begins through feeling and resonance. ☆
Action: Fire acts directly and quickly. ☆	Action: Earth acts step by step. ☆	Action: Air acts through exchange and thinking. ☆	Action: Water acts through connection and timing. ☆
Transformation: Fire transforms through decision and cut. ☆	Transformation: Earth transforms through patience and building. ☆	Transformation: Air transforms through new perspective. ☆	Transformation: Water transforms through letting go and flow. ☆
Power: When fire is clear, it leads without violence. ☆	Power: When earth is right, it carries reliably. ☆	Power: When air is clear, it separates fog from fact. ☆	Power: When water is right, it heals quietly. ☆
Warning signal: When fire tips, it becomes attack. ☆	Warning signal: When earth tips, it becomes rigid. ☆	Warning signal: When air tips, it becomes distraction. ☆	Warning signal: When water tips, it becomes flooding. ☆

AETHER

Start: Aether begins through stillness behind everything. ☆	Action: Aether acts through meaning and order in the field. ☆	Transformation: Aether transforms through insight, that settles. ☆	Power: When aether is clear, everything becomes simpler. ☆
☆	Warning signals: When aether tips, it becomes lifting off without ground. ☆		☆

QUALITIES

For pace, stability and adaptation in movement. These notes show how cardinal, fixed and mutable work – and where they get tangled.

Cardinal: Sets the first impulse. ☆	Fixed: Holds course despite weather. ☆	Mutable: Adapts and learns quickly. ☆	Cardinal: Ripens when it can also stay. ☆
Cardinal: Opens ways where nothing was. ☆	Fixed: Turns idea into substance. ☆	Mutable: Connects opposites through flexibility. ☆	Fixed: Ripens when it allows change. ☆
Cardinal: Decides before it becomes comfortable. ☆	Fixed: Protects values from mood. ☆	Mutable: Finds solutions in transition. ☆	Mutable: Ripens when it commits. ☆
Cardinal: Tips when it only wants to start. ☆	Fixed: Tips when it cannot yield. ☆	Mutable: Tips when it scatters itself. ☆	☆

MIRROR SENTENCES

For relief in the nervous system – without pushing away. These notes strengthen detachment, the ability to rest and inner softness.

What irritates You shows You a boundary. ☆	What You despise, You have not integrated. ☆	What You exaggerate is trying to cover something. ☆	What You idealise, You do not want to examine. ☆
What fascinates You shows You a wish. ☆	What You do not speak controls in the background. ☆	What triggers You wants to be seen, not avenged. ☆	What You avoid challenges You quietly. ☆
What You fight often binds You more strongly. ☆	What You constantly explain is often insecure. ☆	What shames You needs compassion and truth. ☆	What You repeat, a part of You believes. ☆
☆	What constantly gets tangled needs a clear decision. ☆	☆	☆

WISDOMS

For timeless sentences with image power and principles. These notes are calm, concise, supportive – more direction than explanation.

Whoever hunts signs overlooks the obvious. ☆	A thread loosens more easily when one does not tear it. ☆	The mountain does not move, yet it teaches patience. ☆	A circle remains round, even when it is invisible. ☆
Whoever only counts understands no melody. ☆	A calm gaze sees the joint in the stone. ☆	The key often lies beside the door. ☆	Water does not ask, it finds the way. ☆
A fire warms, as long as it does not devour. ☆	A clean house fears no visitors. ☆	Whoever denies shadow stumbles in the dark. ☆	Whoever runs in fog loses direction. ☆
The old falls when it is hollow inside. ☆	The way becomes short when the steps are right. ☆	Whoever honours time becomes less rushed. ☆	A quiet yes is stronger than a loud perhaps. ☆
Whoever listens hears also the unsaid. ☆	A sign repeats itself until You honour it. ☆	The tone is small, yet it orders the room. ☆	The lantern does not shine because it shouts. ☆
Whoever harvests too early tastes only unripeness. ☆	Whoever accepts the ending gains beginning force. ☆	The shadow becomes shorter when You step into the light. ☆	Whoever only looks for gold overlooks bread. ☆
A mirror shows the face, not the intention. ☆	Whoever meets the core needs no decoration. ☆	A door closes so that You see another. ☆	The eagle does not forget the ground. ☆

wind does not have
to run against it.

The wise step
is not the fastest,
but the fitting one.

Whoever reads the
wind does not have
to run against it.

Whoever clarifies
the source drinks
more easily later.

A quiet day can save a loud week.

A quiet sky shows more than a loud heart.

The brook remains clear because it keeps flowing.

A quiet sky shows more than a loud heart.

A knot does not loosen through anger.

Whoever honours
the sign needs
less chance.

Truth often sits at the edge, not in the centre of words.

A calm breath
makes the gaze clear.

The brook remains clear
because it keeps flowing.

Whoever stands in the storm learns roots.

The hand becomes free when it does not cramp.

A seed does not grow faster
by pulling.

The way remains,
even when You
pause briefly.

A seed does not grow faster by pulling.

A leaf falls
because it is ripe,
not because it fails.

Whoever sees their own part finds peace.

FINAL WORDS

You do not have to rebuild Your life in order to use Arkanum. It is enough to change the gaze. That is exactly what the Arkanum 365 Edition is intended for.

As a companion through real days. Not perfect ones. Some notes work like a hint, others like a mirror, some like a clear sign in the moment. Sometimes one sentence is enough to realign You again.

Use the notes in the way that fits Your everyday life. Draw one every day or only when You consider it necessary. You can choose by themes or mix everything. You can collect them, place them visibly or simply read them briefly and move on. What matters is not how much You do, but that You apply them. Interpretation does not arise through intensity, but through clarity. Every day on which You pause briefly, recognise a sign and choose the next fitting step is a good day.
